DEDICATION AND PREPARATION WEEK FOR PRODUCTION

MARCH 24th to 30th.

The food situation is so serious that the Government of the Province of Ontario have set aside a full week beginning March 24th as DEDICATION AND PREPARATION WEEK to organize and prepare for More Production. A full week was set aside in the United States recently and was known as Farm Machinery and Seed Week. Every farmer was asked to go over all his machinery and to place it in first-class repair, and, if necessary, to send and get new parts. By this method there would be no loss of time during the busy season. In addition, every farmer was asked to clean his seed grain, and not only run it through the fanning mill once, but to clean it at least three times, so that only the largest and best seed grain would be sown. Preparation Week was a great success in the United States. Practically every farmer got busy and put things in first-class shape before the busy season of seeding commenced.

Canadian farmers can and will do as well. Every farmer in the county of Lennox and Addington is asked to do his share towards making Dedication and Preparation Week for more production a success.

HOW NAPANEE WILL HELP

Napanee will help. The town council is very much alive to the needs of increased production and have formed special committees to assist in every way possible, not only to increase production in town, but to devise means of assisting the farmers.

TOWNSPEOPLE MAY KEEP PIGS

Under certain restrictions, citizens of Napanee may keep a pig or pigs. The town council have introduced a by-law allowing citizens to keep pigs. First, a permit must be obtained from the local Board of Health, and at certain intervals the pens will be inspected to see that they are kept in a sanitary condition. Every householder who can possibly do so should keep at least one pig.

BACK YARD GARDENS

Every person should aim to have a good garden this season, and to grow all their own vegetables. Canned goods will be forbidden this year the same as last summer, and every housekeeper should plan to put all the canned vegetables necessary for next winter's use. But a small garden is not enough. Every householder should plan to grow enough potatoes to keep them next winter. If anyone has not got sufficient land on their premises steps should be taken to obtain some vacant lots or land in or near town. A committee of the town council is making a special canvas of all vacant lands in town. Under a new law just passed by the town to offer to help a farmer during his holidays. Many of the prominent business men and ministers have also volunteered. It is now up to the farmers of the county to fall in line and make the best use possible of this voluntary help. It is not a question of dollars; it is a question of producing more food to send overseas. It is expected the farmers will be as patriotic as the townspeople. Town and county must co-operate this year as never before.

SEED WHEAT

Farmers are responding to the appeal for a large acreage of spring wheat. The mark set for the Province of Ontario is 500,000 acres, or 10,000,000 bushels. It figures out to five acres for every farmer. Do your share. If you cannot grow five acres your neighbor must grow ten acres to make up. Every farmer is urged to sow whatever acreage he has fitted for spring wheat. Land that grew corn or roots last season is ideal for spring wheat.

Seed will be supplied the farmer at cost. The Government are bringing 50,000 bushels of Marquis Spring Wheat Seed from Western Canada. It is in 2-bushel bags and will cost $2.74 per bushel. As a special concession to farmers the Government has decided to pay the freight on this wheat. Farmers may now have their wheat delivered to their nearest station at $2.74 per bushel. Order your wheat at once from Mr. G. B. Curran, Agricultural Office, Napanee. Cash must accompany order.

SEED SUPPLIED TO FARMERS

To induce farmers to buy better seed and to increase acreage and production, the Ontario Government have arranged with the banks to loan money to farmers to buy seed, the loan to be repaid after harvest. No farmer now can have any excuse for sowing poor or inferior seed. If he has not got good seed he is urged to borrow money and buy the best seed, and the increased yield will more than repay the cost. No farmer may borrow more than $200.00 at 6 per cent. payable November 1st, 1918. Farmers wishing to borrow money to buy seed are requested to apply to their nearest bank manager, or to Mr. G. B. Curran, Napanee.

BRITAIN NEEDS CANADA'S FOOD
Farmers need not be in fear that they can raise enough food to flood the markets. The following totals gives the percentage of Britain's food supplied from Canada:

Beef—2 per cent.
Pork—8 per cent.
Butter—1 per cent.
Cheese—67 per cent.
Wheat—42 per cent.
Barley—14 per cent.

can be supplied with seed. Next $20.00 in cash prizes will be paid to winners having the highest scoring gardens.

BOYS' AND GIRLS' PIG CLUB

Through an arrangement with the Merchants Bank of Canada a Boys and Girls' Pig Club is being organized. Children who have been prominent in Rural School Fair work will be invited to join. Briefly the plan is as follows: The bank loans money to buy a pair of pigs for each member, one a pure-bred gilt, to be retained for breeding purposes, and the other a grade barrow, to be sold for meat. The sale of the grade pig will pay for the cost of the two pigs and the child will next fall own a pure-bred pig free of cost; and, in addition have a surplus for his or her labor. The parents must agree to supply the food for the pigs, and must give a written guarantee to the bank that the loan will be repaid next November, and that all the conditions of the contest will be carried out by the child.

As the cost of pigs this year is rather high, and as the amount of money available for loans to boys and girls is not to exceed over $15, only 60 applications for membership in the Pig Club can be received this year, so all children who wish to enter this contest are requested to apply at once to Mr. E. R. Checkle, Manager of the Merchants Bank, Napanee; or to Mr. G. B. Curran, Department of Agriculture, Napanee.

BOYS HELP FOR FARMERS

The government has organized what might be called a national employment agency, for the purpose of meeting the demand for farm labor. The only supply is that of old men and boys, and a systematic effort is being made to bring the supply in demand into closer touch with each other.

1. If a farmer is in need of a boy he should apply to Rev. Demille, Napanee, or to G. B. Curran. Application should be made in person, though it may be made by phone letter and should be done as soon possible.

2. When applying please state a general way the nature of the work expected. Some of the boys who were out last year are being experienced, others have little or no experience. But all have had some training and are fairly proficient with their hands.

It is to be hoped that the farmers in the district will accept this offer in the spirit in which the government and promoters are laboring—that increasing production.

Under a new law just passed by the Ontario Legislature the municipalities have the power to appropriate any vacant or idle land in their boundaries for the purpose of cultivating to produce more food. Owners of vacant lots are requested to notify Mr. Mark Graham at once, and heads of families wanting land to cultivate may also apply to Mr. Graham, or any member of the council.

TOWN LABOR FOR FARMS

The people of the towns will be organized to do their share this year. The S.O.S. boys have already been organized. In addition, the girls will be asked to help later in berry-picking and other similar lines of work they can do. Every man in Napanee will be asked to spend his holidays on the farm. Whenever possible men should arrange themselves to work with some farmer they know. All who cannot place themselves will be asked to hand their names to the Labor Committee of the town council who will place them with farmers. Factories and employers of labor will be asked to give their employees three weeks holidays during the harvest season to enable them to help farmers get in the harvest. The mayor of the town has set a splendid example by being the first volunteer.

Wheat—42 per cent.
Barley—14 per cent.
Oats—38 per cent.
Rye—4 per cent.

These figures show how small Canada's contribution has been. We must send more food to Britain this year. Only in wheat and cheese are we doing anywhere near our share. We should send more beef, pork, and butter across the seas, in addition to our usual supplies of cheese and wheat.

RURAL SCHOOL FAIRS

Rural School Fairs will be held again this year in every township of the county. Every school is expected to take part. In war time the children can do much to increase production. The best seeds will be supplied the children and directions for growing given with each package. Eggs will also be supplied to the children as in former years at 25c. a setting.

WAR GARDEN CONTEST

Last year 65 children grew a War Garden in a Home Garden contest. Boys or girls from 12 to 18 years of age will be given a garden 30 by 50 feet including practically every kind of vegetable grown on the farm. This year seed for these war gardens will again be sent out. Children who have left school will be eligible to get seed. Only the first 50 applicants

Spring Wheat Seed for Ontario

The world demand for wheat in 1918 justifies the greatest possible effort towards increased production. The small acreage of fall wheat put in last fall will mean increased acreage in Ontario available for spring wheat. The Ontario Government is co-operating with the farmers in order to provide seed. It has purchased 50,000 bushels of No. 1 Marquis Spring Wheat Seed through the Seed Branch of the Federal Department of Agriculture. More will be purchased if necessary to fill needs.

DISTRIBUTION Seed is sold only in 2 bushel bags. Farmers ordering wheat will have to go to their local stations to obtain delivery. Wheat will be shipped to the farmers nearest station prepaid.

WHERE TO BUY—Purchases may be made either in the warehouses at the distributing points, OR orders may be placed with the nearest District Department of Agriculture, OR they may be sent direct by mail to the Markets Branch, Department of Agriculture, Parliament Buildings, Toronto.

PAYMENT IN CASH—Price is $2.74 per bushel at all local stations. IN ALL CASES, WITHOUT EXCEPTION CASH MUST ACCOMPANY ORDER. Send remittance by marked cheque, postal note, post office, or express money order, made payable to Ontario Department of Agriculture, Markets Branch.

ORDER EARLY—In the event of the requirements of the Province being underestimated, there may not be enough seed to go around. It is advised in order to insure having their orders filled that purchasers should place orders as soon as possible. All orders are subject to confirmation and will be filled in the order received. As seed is delivered in 2 bushel bags, orders should be for even numbers of bushels, and no order for less than two bushels can be accepted.

It is not so much matter of making money out of boys' service as getting the food produced. If a mutual spirit of goodwill dominates the transaction, farmer will be enabled to produce more and the boy will work to limit of his capacity, for both working for the one end, laboring together for King and Country.

SOLDIERS OF THE SOIL

A large and enthusiastic gathering of the men and boys of the town in the town hall on Tuesday evening for the purpose of recruiting boys between the ages of thirteen and sixteen for farm work.

The withdrawal of men from land and the pressing need of food for the Allies have led the government to organize all the available forces of boy workers to the one of securing help for the farmers.

Mr. C. W. Demille, of Trinity Church has been appointed organizer of this district. He has to help him this town a committee of boy workers and men interested in the matter production. Of this committee chairman is the mayor of the town.

Mr. Evans was chairman of meeting on Tuesday. The band in attendance and rendered many inspiring selections, and the way boys sang the songs was a great source of pleasure and amusement both for themselves and the groups.

The speakers of the evening were Mayor Robinson, C. W. Demille, Coleman and Mr. Corkill. They had some special phase of the subject to deal with and succeeded in holding the attention of the boys. Bringing home to them the needs of the work on the farm.

Briefly the plans outlined were these:

The boys who enlist in this service are to be recognized as part of the nation's forces. They will receive minimum salary of fifteen dollars a month, and as much over that as they are worth. Some last summer earned sixty dollars, while this year wages will be even higher.

The boys will be under supervision and will, on the completion of three months' service, receive a government bronze medal as recognition of part they have played in the great war.

If there is opposition to the movement it will not come from the boys if one is to judge from the meeting. So the parents are asked to sink personal feelings and prejudices and do all in their power to encourage their boys to enlist in this patriotic health producing and absolutely necessary work for at least six months.

The boys are asked to sign expressing their willingness to serve and, unless they specially request, be placed with some particular farmer will be assigned a position by

On behalf of the citizens of Napanee I wish to say to the farmers of our county that we fully realize their difficulty in securing help to carry out the absolutely necessary work of greater production, and we assure them that we will do all in our power to organize the town so that we may most effectively assist them in their patriotic campaign for the greatest production possible this coming season. If any farmer has any suggestions to offer any member of the council will be glad to hear them.

Mayor Robinson, C. W. Demille, Rev. J. E. Maden and Mr. Corkill. They each made some special phase of the subject to deal with and succeeded in holding the attention of the boys and inducing them to the necessity of the work on the farm.

Briefly the plans outlined were as follows:

The boys who enlist in this service are to be recognized as part of the town's forces. They will receive a minimum salary of fifteen dollars a month, and as much over that as they are worth. Some last summer earned twenty dollars, while this year the wages will be even higher.

The boys will be under supervision of the town, on the completion of three months' service, receive a government bronze medal as recognition of the part they have played in the great war.

If there is opposition to the movement it will not come from the boys, one is to judge from the meeting. probably be that an agreement will be entered into with one of our citizens who will collect the garbage at least twice a week, the town supplying him with a proper steam cooking plant.

The disposal of night soil will come in for some further regulation along the same lines as it is now being carried on.

The disposal of dead animals seemed to be the most difficult of the lot, under the present conditions. Deceased animals should either be deeply buried in the ground and covered with lime or creamed. The great difficulty at present is that the town has no place where either of the above methods can be carried out. That such a place is necessary was evidenced by the facts presented by the Medical Officer of Health. Recent investigations disclosed the following conditions in the east end of the town, all within a radius of a couple of blocks, a dead dog lying in a back yard, and in a field a short distance away a dead horse and a dead cow.

Action will be taken against the parties responsible for these conditions, but in the meantime the Medical Officer of Health thought a place animals should be provided.

The last question was referred to the Poor and Sanitary Committee to devise some scheme for the proper disposal of dead animals.

The question of a garden production campaign for the town was also discussed, and arrangements are being completed for its presentation to our citizens in the near future.

PARLIAMENT IS OPEN

Commons Begins Work of Session
After Speech From the Throne
Delivered by Governor-General
Hon. E. N. Rhodes Again Elected
Speaker—Leaders Touch Sworn

OTTAWA, March 19.—The Parliament opened yesterday in unusual expedition. The Speaker elected, the speech from the throne delivered and the debate upon address in reply to the speech from the throne formally moved and concluded. The debate will be resumed to-day by Sir Wilfrid Laurier, followed by the Prime Minister. If opposition member arises to reply
the speech of Sir Robert Borden, address may be adopted without
lay. This, however, is unlikely the debate may be prolonged speeches from both sides of House.

The proceedings were quiet decorous. Sir Robert Borden expressed a desire to arrange the debate suit the convenience of Sir Wilfrid Laurier and the latter eulogized
Speaker Rhodes and showered compliments upon the Government members who moved and seconded
address.

W. B. Northrup, the new clerk who for many years represented
Hastings in the house, called Commons to order at 11 o'clock, most immediately after they were summoned by the Usher of the Black Rod to the Senate chamber. He according to immemorial usage gotten to elect a Speaker, they sent back to their chamber for purpose with instructions to receive and hear the speech from the throne at three o'clock. Hon. E. N. Rhodes was again chosen Speaker upon motion of Sir Robert Borden, seconded by Hon. F. B. Carvell.

The first ball in the Parliament game was tossed by H. M. Mc (Parkdale) who moved the address.
Mr. Mowat is not an orator, but spoke with evident feeling and energy. He touched briefly but without bitterness on the past election and stated that the Union Government and the new Parliament had unmistakable mandate from the people.
His own election in the Conservative riding of Parkdale bore witness to the self-forgiveness and calm of a constituency bent only trade and finance, he thought, will be dealt with hereafter, but must not divide the unity of the Government supporters during the continuance of the war.

Wilfrid suggested that the house proclamation. Sir Robert Borden plained that this was due to a mistake on the part of a clerk

the hour, as well as the day,
been named in the order-in-Council.
"There are so many orders in Council," Sir Wilfrid began. But balance of his sentence was drowned in applause, and laughter from opposition benches.

conceded by observers here to have demonstrated its power by moving to Moscow, a step contemplated by Kerensky when he was Premier, but never attempted by him. The Petrograd telegraph agency and all the other strictly national bureaus accompanied the Government here.

The allies will be helping Germany if they allow the intervention of Japan against the will of the Soviet in Siberia. Such an act would be as mad and as bad as the support of the Ukrainian Rada on the foolish assumption that because it was opposed to the Soviet it was therefore opposed to Germany.

It would be a death-blow to the Russian plans for further resistance to Germany. It would, not unlikely, end in making a present to Germany of all the resources of Russia up to the Urals.

Nothing but the existence of the Soviet Government stands between Germany and the realization of the grandiose dream of Mitteleuropa. The Soviet Government also has a grandiose dream of a European revolution which would make an end of militarism. Every step taken against the Soviet helps Germany. Russia is temporarily concluding a separate peace. If the Soviet power is overthrown, that peace may be permanent. But peace and the Soviet power cannot long exist together.

Dividend Was Passed.

LONDON, March 19.—The Grand Trunk has issued a statement deeply regretting their inability to pay dividends on guaranteed or preference stocks owing to the exceedingly unfavorable results of the company's operations in the past year arising out of circumstances entirely beyond their control of their management, notwithstanding that the company carried by far the largest traffic in its history.

The enormous increase in wages, fuel, and all materials due to war conditions caused an immense increase in working expenses. Every effort was continuously made throughout the year to obtain an increase in rates to meet in some measure these serious conditions.

Although these efforts were unsuccessful the board is hopeful that looking to the precedent established by Great Britain at the commencement of the war for the protection of British railway interests, and the proposed legislation now under consideration by Congress regarding American railways, the Canadian Government will in the near future take such action as will enable the companies to meet the present unparalleled war conditions.

Government of Victoria Beaten.

MELBOURNE, Australia, March 19.—The Government of the Commonwealth of Victoria was defeated Saturday, by a vote of 23 to 21, on a motion of the Opposition protesting against reduction of war bonuses for railway men. The result was accepted as a vote of no confidence and the Governor was advised to dissolve Parliament.

Doctors prescribed local remedies, and by constantly applying to cure with local treatment pronounced it incurable. many or Switzerland. They say opinion is growing against continuing German air raids.

A Berlin despatch says that in February Entente aviators made 23 attacks on German towns. Treves was raided three times, and Saarbrücken, Mannheim and Pirmasens once each. While no military damage was done, there was damage to houses and other private property. Twelve persons were killed and 36 injured, fifteen of them severely. One biplane fell into the hands of the Germans.

WANT TO TALK PEACE.

Germany Would Like to Bring War to an End.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—Inferences that Germany may have made a new peace offer to the allies, proposing terms at the expense of Russia, coincide with an older current of discussion which has been running in diplomatic circles here for some time, but which never has shown any evidence of tangible development.

The statement of Lord Robert Cecil, in London, that no such proposals would be considered, coupled with Marshal Hindenburg's announcement that the German offensive would go on in view of the Entente's unresponsive attitude towards Germany's peace intentions, served to strengthen the view of neutral diplomats, who for some time have believed that some sort of underground feelers have been going out.

American officials and allied diplomats, while agreeing with Lord Cecil's statement that no such terms can be considered, give no evidence of how much may be known here of what Hindenburg refers to as Germany's peace intentions.

Some of the neutral diplomats, however, have for some time firmly believed that Germany would be willing even to give up Alsace-Lorraine if she were permitted to retain her hold on the Baltic provinces and the mineral belts in the other nearby sections of Russia.

Forty Civilians Killed.

LONDON, March 19.—In Macedonia there has been a great increase in the military operations. Along almost all of the front, from Lake Ochrida eastward, the big guns of both sides are hammering away at the opposing positions. The Germans apparently are still intent on totally destroying the town of Monastir and wiping out the remaining remnants of its civilian population. The town again has been placed under a fierce bombardment by heavy projectiles and gas shells. In this attack 40 more of the non-combatant populace were killed.

Toronto, with a population of 500,000, recorded only twenty-nine prosecutions for drunkenness during the first week of prohibition, compared with 276 the corresponding week in 1915.

John Dillon's Strong Talk.

ENNISKILLEN, Ireland, March 19.—John Dillon, who succeeded John Redmond as leader of the Irish Nationalists, replying to congratulatory addresses Saturday, said his first task would be to tell England before the world that her statesmen must cease to talk of a league of nations or pretend to carry on this war in defence of small nationalities unless she first set her own house in order and set free a nation that had for seven hundred years groaned under her misgovernment.

Two Terrific Explosions in Paris.

PARIS, March 19.—Two terrific explosions occurred in the Paris suburb of St. Denis Friday. Certain quarters of the city suffered considerable damage. No details are known, but it was announced that an official statement would be made later.

Adventurous Canadians.

A detachment of the Royal Naval Reserve who manned the British armoured cars on the Russian front has returned to London, says The Times.

The detachment consists of two officers and 73 petty officers. It is a force constituted of Englishmen, Australians, Canadians, and New Zealanders, all the men being mechanics. They are well knit, bronzed, and weather-beaten, but in excellent health, and in very high spirits at being back in England after two years' absence. During that period they have fought in Turkey, in Rumania, in Persia, and in Galicia.

Supplies of Gasoline.

In 1915, Canada consumed over 43,000,000 gallons of gasoline. Of this amount about five per cent. was produced from Canadian crude, while the remainder was either imported direct or produced from imported crude. This fact shows the dependence of Canada upon supplies of gasoline and petroleum from United States and strengthens the argument used in a previous issue wherein it was stated that 20 per cent. of the gasoline used in Canada was produced from Canadian crude oil.

CANADIANS WHO EAT THEM FREELY CAN HELP SAVE THE WHEAT FLOUR

People who wish to help in food conservation should consider potatoes as a partial substitute for wheat flour. Potatoes are the chief staple of the semi-perishable foods. Canadians do not eat their fair share of potatoes even in normal times. We have been largely a wheat, beef and pork consuming people. These staples are now required for overseas and it behooves us to substitute other foods for them wherever possible. We consume, perhaps, two and one-half bushels of potatoes per capita per year, or about one-third of a pound per day—equal to one fair sized potato. In some European countries one pound per day per capita is consumed, and in some districts four pounds per day, and nearly twenty-five bushels per day.

Despite the increase in price since the war, potatoes are still among the cheapest of foods. One pound of roast beef costs ten times as much as a pound of potatoes, and twenty per cent. of beef is bone. Three and a third pounds of potatoes supply 1000 calories of energy, at a cost of less than 10 cents, while about 2500 calories are required for full grown persons working indoors. That is to say, if all foods were as cheap as potatoes we could live on twenty-five cents a day. Healthy men have lived and worked for months on a diet of nothing else than potatoes, oleomargarine and a little fruit. Potatoes contain protein of the very best kind. They also contain mineral salts which neutralize harmful acids in the body. The food material in potatoes is 98 per cent. digestible.

Canadians have large supplies of potatoes, carrots, onions and turnips and by consuming these vegetables freely, they can economize with bread.

More than 300 ways of cooking potatoes are known. They come well with many flavors. They can be used to economical advantage with meat and fish, in stews, croquettes, hash, chowders, meat pies, etc. One half a cup of mashed potatoes and two cups of flour make a bread mixture that helps the flour go farther.

Good cooks know the ways of using potatoes are various—boiled, steamed, lyonnaised, baked, chipped, fried, hashed brown, creamed, escalloped, stuffed, au gratin, and scores of combinations.

Canada has plenty of potatoes and, although the price is high compared to normal times, it is not high in comparison with other foods in war time.

EQUAL PRIVILEGES EQUAL SACRIFICES

Canada's War Government could hardly have stopped at selective conscription of man power. Selective conscription of wealth, on the basis of ability to pay, was a corollary that sooner or later had to be adopted as an integral part of our war machine. And so the income war tax came into being. Like the law conscripting the man-power of the nation, the income war tax is based on the axiom that equal privileges of citizenship demand equal sacrifices. And like the law conscripting the man-power of the nation, the income war tax is designed to bear least heavily on those least able to conform to its provisions and most heavily on those best able to bear the burden of its demands. Its fairness is at once its justification and its charter of success.

The income war tax provides that a levy be made on all incomes in excess of $1,500, enjoyed by all unmarried persons or widows and widowers, without dependent children, and on all incomes in excess of $3,000 enjoyed by all other persons, Corporations and Joint Stock Companies. All those coming within the provisions of the act must file on or before the 31st of March, all necessary information concerning their incomes for 1917 as detailed on forms provided for the purpose, which it is their present duty to obtain without loss of time. PROCLAMATION.

WHEREAS, it has been made clear that an adequate supply of foodstuffs to Great Britain and her Allies is now one of the most critical and essential problems in connection with carrying the war to a triumph;

AND WHEREAS, Our Province of Ontario, by virtue of its geographical situation in comparative proximity to the Motherland, occupies a position of special responsibility and opportunity; AND WHEREAS the season approaches which shall determine for another year the amount of foodstuffs which this Province shall produce;

WE, THEREFORE, believing it to be the aspiration of Our people to discharge every responsibility as in the past, and confident of their willingness to take advantage of the opportunity involved, to the end that the cause of righteousness for which we struggle may be advanced, have thought fit, by and with the advice of Our Executive Council for Our Province of Ontario, to appoint, and do hereby appoint, a week of DEDICATION AND PREPARATION for the period of production approaching, beginning on March twenty-fourth;

AND WE DO HEREBY FURTHER URGE and request that each and every Clergyman in Our Province of Ontario shall from his pulpit on Sunday, the twenty-fourth day of March, set forth the facts of the food situation as it affects the Allied cause, emphasizing the responsibility resting on this favoured land, and invoking the blessing of Almighty God on the human efforts put forth towards production, that they may be blessed by Him who alone given the increase;

AND WE DO HEREBY STILL FURTHER URGE and request the careful consideration and patriotic co-operation of all Our people in the matters herein set forth;

FOOD CONDITIONS IN LOND, ENG.

Rev. W. H. Emsley, writing to Rev. W. H. Stevens, Pembroke, on food conditions in London, Eng., says that they could purchase only one-quarter pound of tea, one pound of sugar, half pound of cheese and one pound of meat per week, while during the week in which he wrote they could buy no lard, margarine or butter. Eggs were selling at eleven cents each, and chickens—young or old enough to vote—at sixty-five cents a pound.

POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT.

Ottawa, March 6th, 1918.

The German Authorities have issued a memorandum to the effect that parcels for Prisoners of War interned in Germany must be addressed to the "parent" (or main) camps to which the Prisoners belong and must not bear the names of any branch or working camps or of any other place to which the Prisoner might be detailed for special services.

The memorandum states that Prisoners who have been detailed for services outside the "parent" camps have been enjoined by the German Authorities from the very first, to inform in this sense any relations or other persons from whom they expect to receive postal parcels. Parcels for Prisoners of War in hospitals also come within the meaning of these regulations.

In the interests of the Prisoners it is therefore essential that these regulations should be strictly adhered to as otherwise the German Authorities will not deliver the parcels to the Prisoners of War for which they are intended, and it is suggested that persons in Canada when writing to Prisoners in Germany should ascertain definitely the name of the "parent" (or main) camp so that they can comply with the regulations of the German Authorities in addressing parcels to Prisoners.

We desire to express our great appreciation and very sincere thanks to Mrs. Dickinson's sewing circle of young girls known as the "Daughters of Dorcas" for a handsome donation of $5.00 to aid us with our Comfort Bags for the soldiers.

We also wish to thank sincerely Mrs. Alice Ferguson for a valued donation for our work, contributed to the collection on Thursday afternoon the 14th inst. Both the above items came in just too late to be acknowledged through the press last week.

A fine box containing surgical shirts, fully furnished comfort bags, convalescent hospital slippers, personal property bags, towels, and stretcher caps, have been sent to Canadian Red Cross Headquarters this week; also a generous supply of socks sent to Lieut. A. B. Fennell, C.E.F., for the men of his Battalion.

Do not forget to bring in your old linen and cotton to our work-room, as the same is urgently needed by the small and poor hospitals of France, where such great endurance and so wonderful a spirit has been shown throughout the war!

Also, any donations of chintz, cretonne, sateen, denim, duck or moreen will be most acceptable for making the bright, pretty and useful personal property bags, and housewives, which are so greatly in demand.

When it is remembered that every patient in hospital is given one of these pretty bags for his personal belongings, and that every sailor's comfort bag contains a "housewife," as well as the thousands distributed to soldiers, it can readily be understood that the demand is unending, for the present at any rate. We would also ask all our friends to remember the destitute French and Belgian refugees and repatriates with discarded clothing in good condition, sending the same to our work-room on Thursday afternoons, or leaving for us at Mr. Scrimshaw's grocery on other days.

DARTMOUTH RELIEF REPORT.

With the passing of winter the need for immediate relief in Dartmouth is less acute as rebuilding and distributions of money has begun, therefore, as the work of the Committee for Dartmouth's Relief in Napanee is almost completed, the committee wish me, as Treasurer, to make a report so that the general public may learn how the money and the immense amount of clothing, china, kitchen ware and the various other household articles, have been disposed of. As is known the committee was called together by Mrs. F. F. Miller, through the clergy of the various churches, upon receipt of letters from her nephew, Mr. Mathewson, who has visited the stricken area twice, and through him they have obtained accurate knowledge of the conditions and the great need, and how best to serve. The committee at once met with a most hearty response from town and country, and for two months and a half now have met at

Mrs. Miller's house where new clothing has been made, and quilting, repairing and packing have been done, so that to date 45 cases filled with useful serviceable garments have gone to Dartmouth, besides china, kitchen ware, furs, and various other articles too numerous to mention. Mr. Mathewson has arranged for the transportation of all these cases free of charge to the committee so that a large amount has been saved for new material. Special mention must be made of the 138 new quilts made by willing workers, as the distributors at the other end are loud in their praises of them, and nearly all of the $234.25 received in money has been used in their construction and in buying other greatly needed bed clothing such as wool blankets, flannellette sheets, etc. The committee wish to thank Mrs. Miller who put her house at the disposal, also to thank each and every one who has helped in anyway to carry the work through to a successful finish. They feel that it would be quite impossible to thank each one individually but wish to take this opportunity of returning thanks to everyone who has helped in any way. Without the hearty cooperation of all—such as they have had—they could not have done so much or sent so much where it was so urgently needed. Each one who has helped too, may feel that nothing has been wasted and that everything donated has gone just where it was most needed, for the committee has every confidence in Mrs. James Rowe, who has had charge of the distribution in Dartmouth and her grateful letters as well as letters from recipients have urged on the workers to greater effort. The small sum remaining in hand is to be spent in kitchen ware and the committee is asked to meet at Mrs. Miller's house on Tuesday, March 26th, to complete the work.

Women's Patriotic Service and Red Cross Work

Through the "U. E. Loyalist" Chapter, I.O.D.E.

We desire to express our great appreciation and very sincere thanks to Mrs. Dickinson's sewing circle of young girls known as the "Daughters of Dorcas" for a handsome donation of $5.00 to aid us with our Comfort Bags for the soldiers.

We also wish to thank sincerely Mrs. Alice Ferguson for a valued donation for our work, contributed to the collection on Thursday afternoon the 14th inst. Both the above items came in just too late to be acknowledged through the press last week.

A fine box containing surgical shirts, fully furnished comfort bags, convalescent hospital slippers, personal property bags, towels, and stretcher caps, have been sent to Canadian Red Cross Headquarters this week; also a generous supply of socks sent to Lieut. A. B. Fennell, C.E.F., for the men of his Battalion.

Do not forget to bring in your old linen and cotton to our work-room, as the same is urgently needed by the small and poor hospitals of France, where such great endurance, and so wonderful a spirit has been shown throughout the war!

Also, any donations of chintz, cretonne, sateen, denim, duck or moreen will be most acceptable for making the bright, pretty and useful personal property bags, and housewives, which are so greatly in demand.

When it is remembered that every patient in hospital is given one of these pretty bags for his personal belongings, and that every sailor's comfort bag contains a "housewife," as well as the thousands distributed to soldiers, it can readily be understood that the demand is unending, for the present at any rate. We would also ask all our friends to remember the destitute French and Belgian refugees and repatriates with discarded clothing in good condition, sending the same to our work-room on Thursday afternoons, or leaving for us at Mr. Scrimshaw's grocery on other days.

DARTMOUTH RELIEF REPORT.

With the passing of winter the need for immediate relief in Dartmouth is less acute as rebuilding and distributions of money has begun, therefore, as the work of the Committee for Dartmouth's Relief in Napanee is almost completed, the committee wish me, as Treasurer, to make a report so that the general public may learn how the money and the immense amount of clothing, china, kitchen ware and the various other household articles, have been disposed of. As is known the committee was called together by Mrs. F. F. Miller, through the clergy of the various churches, upon receipt of letters from her nephew, Mr. Mathewson, who has visited the stricken area twice, and through him they have obtained accurate knowledge of the conditions and the great need, and how best to serve. The committee at once met with a most hearty response from town and country, and for two months and a half now have met at

*A Tale of Youth

Time and The Baxter Family Especially William*

TARKINGTON

"Love," William continued, his voice lifting and thrilling to the great theme—"love is something nobody can ever have but one time in their lives, and if they don't have it then, why, prob'ly they never will. Now, if a man really loves a girl, why, he'd do anything in the world she wanted him to. Don't you think so?"

"Ess, 'deedums," said the silvery voice.

"But if he didn't, then he wouldn't," said William vehemently. "But when a man really loves a girl he will. Now, you take a man like that and he can generally do just about anything the girl he loves wants him to. Say, for instance, she wants him to love her even more than he does already, or almost anything like that, and supposin' she asks him to. Well, he would go ahead and do it. If they really loved each other he would!"

He paused a moment, then in a lowered tone he said, "I think real love is sacred, don't you?"

"Ess."

"Don't you think love is the most sacred thing there is—that is, if it's real love?"

"Ess."

"I do," said William warmly. "I'm glad you feel like that, because I think real love is the kind nobody could have but just once in their lives, but if it isn't real love, why—why, most people never have it at all, because"—He paused, seeming to seek for the exact phrase which would express his meaning. "Because the real love a man feels for a girl and a girl for a man, if they really love each other—and, you look at a case like that, of course they would both love each other or it wouldn't be real love—well, what I say is, if it's real love—well, it's—it's sacred, because I think that kind of love is always sacred. Don't you think love is sacred if it's the real thing?"

"Ess," said Miss Pratt. "Do Flopit again. Be Flopit!"

"Berp-werp! Berp-werp-werp!"

And within the library an agonized man writhed and muttered:

"Word! Word! WORD!"

This hoarse repetition had become almost continuous. But out on the porch, that little jasmine scented bower in Arcady where youth cried to youth and golden heads were haloed in the moonshine, there fell a silence, not utter silence, for out there an ethereal music sounded constantly, unheard and forgotten by older ears.

It was William who spoke again.

"How"—he began, and his voice trem-

"Coax him to make plitty singin'. I love his voice. I'm dest crazy over it isn't oo?"

William's passion for Mr. Bullitt's voice appeared to be under control. He laughed coldly, almost harshly. "Him sing?" he said. "Has he been tryin' to sing around here? I wonder the family didn't call for the police!"

"Well, they will," Bullitt retorted. "If you ever spring one of your solos on 'em!" And, turning to Miss Pratt, he laughed loudly and bitterly. "You ought to hear Silly Bill sing—some time when you don't mind goin' to bed sick for a couple o' days!"

"Let's all sing," the tactful Miss Pratt proposed hastily. "Come on, May and Cousin Johnnie Jump-Up!" she called to Miss Parcher and Mr. Watson. "Singin' school, diris au' boys! Singin' school! Ding, ding! Singin' school bell's a-wingin'!"

The diversion was successful. Miss Parcher and Mr. Watson joined the other group with alacrity, and the five young people were presently seated together upon the steps of the porch, sending their voices out upon the air and up to Mr. Parcher's window in the song they found loveliest that summer.

The singers thought so highly of the words that Mr. Parcher missed not one, especially as the vocal rivalry between Josie-Joe and Ickle Boy Baxter incited each of them to prevent Miss Pratt from hearing the other.

William sang loudest of all. Mr. Parcher had at no time any difficulty in recognizing his voice.

Oh, I love my love in the morning,
And I love my love at night;
I love my love in the dawning
And when the stars are bright.
Some may love the sunshine,
Others may love the dew;
Some may love the raindrops,
But I love only you—oo-oo!
By the stars up above
It is you I love—huv!
Yes, I love own-lay you!

They sang it four times; then Mr. Bullitt sang his solo, "Tell Her, O Golden Moon, How I Adore Her," William following with "The Violate Loves the Cowslip, but I Love Yew," and after that they all sang "Oh, I Love My Love In the Morning" again.

All this while that they sang of love Mr. Parcher was moving to and fro upon his bed, not more than eighteen feet in an oblique upward slanting line from the heads of the serenaders.

Miss Jane Baxter opened her eyes upon the newborn day, and her first thoughts were of Mr. Parcher—that is, he was already in her mind when she

"What!" exclaimed Mr. Parcher. "Willie isn't goin' to spend any more evenings at your house at all," said Jane thoughtfully. "He isn't, but he doesn't know it yet."

Mr. Parcher gazed fixedly at the wonderful child, and something like a ray of sunshine flickered over his harried face. "Are you sure he isn't?" he said.

"I know he isn't," said demure Jane. "It's on account of some'n I told mamma."

A new feeling budded within his bosom. He was warmly attracted to Jane. He wished the Bullitt and Watson families each had a little girl like this.

"He'll come in the afternoons, I guess," said Jane. "But you aren't home then, Mr. Parcher, except late, like you were that day of the Sunday school class. It was on account of what you said that day. I told mamma what you said."

Mr. Parcher's perplexity continued. "What about?"

"About Willie. You know!" Jane smiled.

"No, I don't."

"It was when I was layin' in the library that day of the Sunday school class," Jane told him. "You an' Mrs. Parcher was talkin' in there about Miss Pratt an' Willie an' everything."

"Good heavens!" said Mr. Parcher, summoning his memory. "Did you hear all that?"

"Yes," Jane nodded.

"Murder!"

"Well," said Jane, "I guess it's good I did, because look—that's the very reason mamma did some'n so's he can't come any more except in daytime. I guess she thought Willie oughtn't to behave so's you said so many things about him like that. So today she did some'n, an' now he can't come any more to behave that loving way to Miss Pratt that you said you would be in the lunatic asylum if he didn't quit. But he hasn't found it out yet."

"Found what out, please?" he asked. "He hasn't found out he can't come back to your house tonight, an' he can't come back tomorrow night, nor day after tomorrow night, nor"—

"Is it because your mamma is going to tell him he can't?"

"No, Mr. Parcher. Mamma says he's about it, Mr. Parcher. She said that the best way."

Mr. Parcher rested an elbow upon the gatepost, gazing down with ever increasing esteem. "Of course I know your last name," he said, "but I'm afraid I've forgotten your other one. 'It's Jane.'"

"Jane," said Mr. Parcher, "I should like to do something for you."

Jane looked down, and with eyes modestly lowered she swallowed the last fragment of the bread and butter and apple sauce and sugar which had been the constantly evanescent companion of their little walk together. She was not mercenary; she had sought no reward.

"Well, I guess I must run home," she said. She scampered quickly away.

But, though she cared for no reward the extraordinary restlessness of William that evening after dinner must at least have been of great interest to him. He ascended to his own room direct from the table, but about twenty minutes later came down to the library where Jane was sitting with her father and mother.

William looked from one to the other of his parents and seemed about to speak, but did not do so. Instead he departed for the upper floor again and presently could be heard moving about energetically in various parts of the house a remote thump finally indicating that he was doing something with a trunk in the attic.

After that he came down to the library again and once more seemed about to speak, but did not. Then he went upstairs again and came down again, and he was still repeating the process when Jane's time limit was reached, and she repaired conscientiously to her little bed. Her mother came to hear her prayers and to turn out the light, and when Mrs. Baxter had passed out into the hall after Jane heard her speaking to William who was now conducting what seemed to be exhortations on a serious scale in his own room.

"Oh, Willie, perhaps I didn't tell you but you remember I'd been missing papa's evening clothes and looking everywhere for days and days?"

But out on the porch, that little jasmine-scented bower in Arcady where youth cried to youth and golden heads were haloed in the moonshine, there fell a silence, not utter silence, for out there an ethereal music sounded constantly, unheard and forgotten by older ears.

It was William who spoke again. "How"—he began, and his voice trembled a little—"how—how do you—how do you think of me when I'm not with you?"

"Think nice-cums," Miss Pratt responded. "Flopt an' me think nice-cums."

"No," said William; "I mean what name do you have for me when you're—when you're thinking about me?"

Miss Pratt seemed to be puzzled. "I mean like this," William explained: "F'r instance, when you first came I always thought of you as Milady."

"Ess. Boo'fums." "But now I don't," he said. "Now I think of you by another name when I'm alone. It—it just sort of came to me. It was about as strange a thing as I ever knew of. Don't you think so?"

"Ess. It uz dest weird!" she answered. "What are dat pitty names?"

"I called you," said William huskily and reverently—"I called you My Baby Talk Lady."

Bang!

They were startled by a crash from within the library. A heavy weight seemed to have fallen, or to have been buried, a considerable distance. Stepping to the window, William beheld a large volume lying in a distorted attitude at the foot of the wall opposite to that in which the reading lamp was a fixture. Mr. Parcher had given up and was now hastening to his bed in the last faint hope of saving his reason.

William gazed upon the fallen Plutarch. "Somebody must 'a' thrown it at a bug or something, I guess." Then a second explosion sent its reverberations through the house.

"My doodness!" Miss Pratt exclaimed.

William laughed reassuringly. "It's only a door blew shut upstairs," he said.

Unfortunately for him, Joe Bullitt now made his appearance. Mr. Bullitt, though almost a year younger than either William or Johnnie Watson, was of a masterful disposition. Moreover, in regard to Miss Pratt, his affections were in as ardent a state as those of his rivals, and he lacked Johnnie's meekness. He firmly declined to be shunted by Miss Parcher, who was trying to favor William's cause, according to a promise he had won of her. Regardless of her efforts, Mr. Bullitt descended upon William and his Baby Talk Lady and received from the latter a honeyed greeting, somewhat to the former's astonishment.

"Oh, goody cute!" cried Miss Pratt. "Here's big Bruvva Josie-Joe!" And she lifted her little dog close to Mr. Bullitt's face, guiding one of Flopitt's paws with her fingers. "Stroke big Bruvva Josie-Joe's pint teeks, darlin' Flopit." (Josie-Joe's pink cheeks were indicated by the expression "pint teeks" evidently, for her accompanying action was to pass Flopitt's paw lightly over those glowing surfaces.) "At's nice!" she remarked. "Stroke him gently, p'esbus Flopit, an' nen we'll coax him to make pitty singin' for us, like us did yestiday."

She turned to William.

Loves the Cowslip, but I Love Yew," and after that they all sang "Oh, I Love My Love in the Morning" again.

All this while that they sang of love Mr. Parcher was moving to and fro upon his bed, not more than eighteen feet in an oblique upward slanting line from the heads of the serenaders.

Miss Jane Baxter opened her eyes upon the newborn day, and her first thoughts were of Mr. Parcher—that is, he was already in her mind when she awoke, a circumstance to be accounted for on the ground that his conversation during her quiet convalescence in his library had so fascinated her that in all likelihood she had been dreaming of him.

Then, too, Jane and Mr. Parcher had a bond in common, though Mr. Parcher did not know it. Not without result had William repeated Miss Pratt's inquiry in Jane's hearing. "Who is that curious child?" Jane had preserved her sang froid, but the words remained with her, for she was one of those who ponder and retain in silence.

CHAPTER VI.

Jane Meets Mr. Parcher.

JANE thought almost exclusively of Mr. Parcher until breakfast time and resumed her thinking of him at intervals during the morning. Then, in the afternoon, a series of quiet events not unconnected with William's passion caused her to think of Mr. Parcher more poignantly than ever. Who can say, then, that it was not by design that she came face to face with Mr. Parcher on the public highway at about 5 o'clock that afternoon?

Mr. Parcher was walking home from his office, and he walked slowly, gulping from time to time as he thought of the inevitable evening before him. His was not a rugged constitution, and for the last fortnight or so he had feared that it was giving way altogether.

Walking more and more slowly as he approached the dwelling he had once thought of as home, he became aware of a little girl in a checkered dress approaching him at a gait varied by the indifferent behavior of a barrel hoop which she was disciplining with a stick held in her right hand. When the hoop behaved well she came ahead rapidly; when it affected to be intoxicated, which was most often its whim, she zigzagged with it and gained little ground. But all the while, and without reference to what went on concerning the hoop, she slowly and continuously fed herself (with her left hand) small, solemnly relished bites of a slice of bread and butter covered with apple sauce and powdered sugar.

Mr. Parcher looked upon her, and he shivered slightly, for he knew her to be Willie Baxter's sister.

Jane checked her hoop and halted.

"G'd afternoon, Mr. Parcher."

"Good afternoon," he returned.

Jane looked up at him trustfully and with a strange, unconscious fondness. "You goin' home now, Mr. Parcher?" she asked.

"I suppose so," he murmured.

"My brother Willie's been at your house all afternoon," she remarked.

He repeated, "I suppose so," but in a tone of hopeless animosity.

"He just went home," said Jane. "He kept lookin' back at your house. Miss Pratt was on the porch."

"I suppose so," with a moan.

"My brother Willie isn't comin' back to your house tonight, but he doesn't know it yet."

Today she did some'n, an' now she can't come any more to behave that loving way to Miss Pratt that you said you would be in the lunatic asylum if he didn't quit. But he hasn't found it out yet."

"Found what out, please?" he asked.

"He hasn't found out he can't come back to your house tonight, an' he can't come back tomorrow night, nor day after tomorrow night, nor—"

"Is it because your mamma is going to tell him he can't?"

"No, Mr. Parcher. Mamma says he's too old, an' she said she didn't like to, anyway. She just did some'n."

"What? What did she do?"

"It's a secret," said Jane. "I could tell you the first part of it—up to where the secret begins, I expect."

"Do!" Mr. Parcher urged.

"Well, it's about some'n Willie's been wearin'." Jane began, moving closer to him as they slowly walked onward. "I can't tell you what they were, because that's the secret, but he had 'em on him every evening when he came to see Miss Pratt, but they belong to papa, an' papa doesn't know a word about it."

"Well, one evening papa wanted to put 'em on, because he had a right to, Mr. Parcher, an' Willie didn't have any right to at all, but mamma couldn't find 'em, an' she rummaged an' rummaged 'most all next day an' pretty near every day since then an' never did find 'em, until don't you believe I saw Willie inside of 'em only last night! He was startin' over to your house to see Miss Pratt in 'em. So I told mamma, an' she said it'd haf to be a secret, so that's why I can't tell you what they were."

"Well, an' then this afternoon, early, I was with her, an' she said, long as I had told her the secret in the first place, I could come in Willie's room with her, an' we both were already in there anyway, 'cause I was kind of thinkin' maybe she'd go in there to look for 'em, Mr. Parcher."

"I see," he said admiringly. "I see."

"Well, they were under Willie's window seat, all folded up, an' mamma said she wondered what she better do, an' she was worried because she didn't like to have Willie behave so's you an' Mrs. Parcher thought that way about him. So she said the secret—what Willie wears, you know, but they're really papa's an' aren't Willie's any more'n they're mine—well, she said the secret was gettin' a little teeny bit too tight for papa, but she guessed they—I mean the secret—she said she guessed it was already pretty loose for Willie. So she wrapped it up, an' I went with her, an' we took 'em to a tailor, an' she told him to make 'em bigger, for a surprise for papa, 'cause then they'll fit him again, Mr. Parcher."

"She said he must let 'em way, way out! So I guess Willie would look too funny in 'em after they're fixed. An', anyway, Mr. Parcher, the secret won't be home from the tailor's for two weeks, an' maybe by that time Miss Pratt'll be gone."

They had reached Mr. Parcher's gate. He halted and looked down fondly upon this child who seemed to have read his soul. "Do you honestly think so?" he asked.

"Well, anyway, Mr. Parcher," said Jane, "mamma said—well, she said she's sure Willie wouldn't come here in the evening any more, when you're at home, Mr. Parcher—'cause after he'd been wearin' the secret every night this way he wouldn't like to come an' not have the secret on. Mamma said the reason he would feel like that was because he was seventeen years old. An' she isn't goin' to tell him anything

Both the sad eyed William and father were dumfounded. "Where earth did she get a five pound box candy?" Mr. Baxter demanded.

"What gentleman?" gasped Willi And in his mother's eyes as t slowly came to rest on his in reply was aware of an inscrutability stro ly remindful of that inscrutable h of Jane's.

he uncovered, placing the contents be-were:

A faded rose; several other faded roses, disintegrated into leaves; three withered "four leaf clovers;" a white ribbon still faintly smelling of violets;
a small silver shoe buckle; a large pearl button; a small pearl button; a tortoise shell hairpin; a cross section from the heel of a small slipper; a stringy remnant, probably once an improvised wreath of daisies; four or five withered dandelions; other dried vegetation of a nature now indistinguishable.

His gentle eyes showed his emotion.

CHAPTER VII.

Progress of the Symptoms.

WILLIAM'S writing table was beside an open window, through which came an insistent whirring, unagree-able to his mood, and, looking down upon the sunny lawn, he beheld three lowly creatures. One was Genesis, cutting the grass; another was Clematis—he had assumed a transient attitude, curiously triangular, in order to scratch his ear—the third was Jane.
In one hand she held a little stack of sugar sprinkled wafers, which she slowly but steadily depleted. Wearing unaccustomed garments of fashion and festivity, Jane stood, in speckless, starchy white and a blue sash, watching the lawn mower spout showers of grass as the powerful Genesis easily propelled it across the grass.

Clematis found his ear too pliable for any great solace from his foot.
Rising, he permitted his nose to lead him, with the result that it touched the rim of the last wafer in Jane's external possession.

This incident annoyed William. "Look there!" he called from the window.
"You mean to eat that cake after the dog's had his face on it?"

"It wasn't his face," Jane observed.

"Well, if it wasn't his face, I'd like to know what?"

"It wasn't his face," Jane repeated.
"It was his nose. It wasn't all of his nose touched it either. It was only a little outside piece of his nose."

"Well, are you going to eat that cake,
I ask you?"

Jane broke off a small bit of the wafer. She gave the bit to Clematis and slowly ate what remained, continuing to watch Genesis and apparently unconscious of the scorching gaze from the window.

"I never saw anything as disgusting as long as I've lived!" William announced. "I wouldn't 'a' believed it if anybody'd told me a sister of mine would eat after!"

"I didn't," said Jane. "I like Clematis, anyway."

"Ye gods!" her brother cried. "Do you think that makes it any better?
And, by the way," he continued in a tone of even greater severity, "I'd like to know where you got those cakes.
Where'd you get 'em, I'd just like to inquire?"

"In the pantry," Jane turned and moved toward the house. "I'm goin'
in for some more now."

"Don't sit on the CAKES!" they both

Saving himself and the pan of wa-upon his feet. "What do I care for William uttered a cry. He knew that he was struck, but he was not sure how or where. Again he dashed from the room. Near the open front door he came to a sudden halt, and Mrs.

Baxter and Jane heard him calling loudly to the industrious Genesis:
"Here! You go cut the grass in the back yard and, for heaven's sake, take that dog with you!"

"Grass awready cut roun' back," responded the amiable voice of Genesis.
"Cut all 'at back ya'd 's mawnin'."

"Well, you can't cut the front yard

"Nemmine 'bout 'at back ya'd! Ole

"You hear me?" William shouted.
"You do what I say at once!"

Genesis laughed gayly. "I got my

Once more William presented himself faithfully to his mother and Jane.
"May I just kindly ask you to look out in the front yard? I want you to look at Genesis."

"I'm familiar with his appearance," said Mrs. Baxter. "Why in the world the light, and when Mrs. Baxter passed out into the hall after that she heard her speaking to William, who was now conducting what seemed to be extortations on a serious scale in his own room.

"Oh, Willie, perhaps I didn't tell you, you remember I'd been missing my evening clothes and looking everywhere for days and days?"

"Yes," huskily from William.

Well, I found them. And where do you suppose I'd put them? I found them under your window seat. Can you think of anything more absurd than putting them there and then forcing it? I took them to the tailor's and they were let out. They were getting too tight for papa, but they'll be tight for him when the tailor sends a back."

That the stricken William gathered that this it is impossible to state with accuracy. Probably he mixed some perplexity with his emotions. Certainly he was perplexed the following morning at dinner.

He did not appear at the table. Or child! She's sick in bed," Mrs. Baxter explained to her husband. "I out this afternoon, and she ate up all of a five pound box of ly."

With the sad eyed William and his brother were dumfounded. "Where on earth did she get a five pound box of ly?" Mr. Baxter demanded.

"I'm afraid Jane has begun her first affair," said Mrs. Baxter. "A gentleman sent it to her."

"What gentleman?" gasped William. And in his mother's eyes as they were came to rest on his in reply he was aware of an inscrutability strong and reminding of that inscrutable look of Jane's.

"Mr. Parcher," she said gently

Where'd you get 'em, I'd just like to inquire?"

"In the pantry," Jane turned and moved toward the house. "I'm going in for some more now."

William uttered a cry. These little cakes were sacred. His mother, growing curious to meet a visiting lady of whom, so to speak, she had heard much and thought more, had asked May Parcher to bring her guest for iced tea that afternoon. A few others of congenial age had been invited. There was to be a small matinee, in fact, for the honor and pleasure of the son of the house, and the cakes of Jane's onslaught were part of Mrs. Baxter's preparations.

William hid himself to the pantry with such advantage of longer legs that within the minute he and the wafers appeared in conjunction before his mother, who was arranging fruit and flowers upon a table in the living room.

William entered in the stained glass attitude of one bearing gifts. Overhead both hands supported a tin pan well laden with small cakes and wafers, for which Jane was silently but repeatedly and systematically jumping. Even under the stress of these efforts her expression was cool and collected. She maintained the self possession that was characteristic of her.

Not so with William. His cheeks were flushed, his eyes indignant. "You see what this child is doing?" he demanded. "Are you going to let her ruin everything?"

"Ruin?" Mrs. Baxter repeated absently, refreshing with fair water a bowl of flowers upon the table. "Ruin?"

"Yes, ruin!" William was hotly emphatic. "If you don't do something with her it'll all be ruined before Miss Pratt—before they even get here!"

Mrs. Baxter laughed. "Set the pan down, Willie."

"Set it down?" he echoed incredulously. "With that child in the room and grabbing like?"

"There!" Mrs. Baxter took the pan from him, placed it upon a chair and with the utmost coolness selected five wafers and gave them to Jane. "I'd already promised she could have five more. You know the doctor said Jane's digestion was the finest he'd ever misunderstood. They won't hurt her at all, Willie."

This deliberate misinterpretation of his motives made it difficult for William to speak. "Do you think," he began hoarsely, "do you think?"

"They're so small too," Mrs. Baxter went on. "She probably wouldn't be sick if she ate them all."

"My heavens!" he burst forth. "Do you think I was worrying about?" He broke off, unable to express himself save by a few gestures of despair. Again finding his voice, and a great deal of it, he demanded: "Do you realize that Miss Pratt will be here within less than half an hour? What do you suppose she'd think of the people of this town if she was invited out expecting decent treatment and found two-thirds of the cakes eaten up before she got there and what was left of 'em all pawed over and chewed up lookin' from some wretched child?"

"Now, Willie," said Mrs. Baxter gently, "you'd better go up and brush your hair again before your friends come. You mustn't let yourself get so excited."

"Excited!" he cried incredulously. "Do you think I'm excited? Ye gods!"

He smote his hands together and in his despair of her intelligence would ously, beginning to pace the floor. "It's the question of principle I'm talking about! Do you think it's right to give the people of this town a poor name when strangers like Miss Pratt come to visit?"

"Willie!" His mother looked at him hopelessly. "Do go and brush your hair. If you could see how you've tousled it you would."

He strode from the room.

Jane looked after him placidly. "Didn't he talk funny?" she murmured. "Yes, dear," said Mrs. Baxter. She shook her head and uttered the enigmatic words, "They do."

"I mean Willie, mamma," said Jane. "If it's anything about Miss Pratt he always talks awful funny. Don't you think Willie talks awful funny if it's anything about Miss Pratt, mamma?"

"Yes, but—"

"What, mamma?" Jane asked as her mother paused.

"Well, it happens. People do get like that at his age, Jane."

"Does everybody?"

"No, I suppose not everybody; just some."

William returned violently to the doorway, his hair still tousled, and, standing upon the threshold, said sternly:

"What is that child wearing her best dress for?"

"To please you. Don't you want her to look her best at your tea?"

"I thought that was it!" he cried, and upon this confirmation of his worst fears he did increased violence to his rumpled hair. "I suspected it, but I wouldn't 'a' believed it! You mean to let this child—you mean to let"—Here his agitation affected his throat and his utterance became clouded. A few detached phrases fell from him: "Invite my friends—children's party—ye gods!—think Miss Pratt plays dolls!"

"Jane will be very good," his mother said. "I shouldn't think of not having her. Willie, and you needn't bother about your friends. They'll be very glad to see her. They all know her except Miss Pratt, perhaps, and"—Mrs. Baxter paused; then she asked absently, "By the way, haven't I heard somewhere that she likes pretending to be a little girl herself?"

"What!"

"Yes," said Mrs. Baxter, remaining calm, "I'm sure I've heard somewhere that she likes to talk baby talk."

Upon this a tremor passed over William, after which he became rigid. "You ask a lady to your house," he began, "and even before she gets here, before you've even seen her, you pass judgment upon one of the—one of the nobles!"

Mrs. Baxter laughed, and then, probably a little out of patience with him, she gave way to that innate mischievousness in such affairs which is not unknown to her sex. "You see, Willie, if Miss Pratt pretends to be a cunning

Once more William presented himself faithfully to his mother and Jane. "May I just kindly ask you to look out in the front yard? I want you to look at Genesis."

"I'm familiar with his appearance," said Mrs. Baxter. "Why in the world do you mind his cutting the grass?"

William groaned. "Do you honestly want guests coming to this house to see that awful old dorky out there and know that he's the kind of servants we employ? Ye gods!"

"Why, Genesis is just a neighborhood outdoor dorky, Willie. He works for half a dozen families besides us."

"Yes," he cried, "but a lady that didn't live here wouldn't know that! Ye gods! What do you suppose she would think? You know what he's got on!"

"It's a sort of sleeveless jersey he wears, Willie, I think."

TO ERADICATE QUACK GRASS

Small Patches Can Be Covered With Tar Paper or Forked Out—Fellow Disk With Harrow.

The following will eradicate quack grass:

For small patches cover with tar paper or fork it out. For a large area first mow it, then plow it under and disk about once a week till fall. Sometimes it pays to follow the disk with the harrow. It will sometimes be found necessary to plow it again at the end of the season. Corn is a good crop to put on this land the following year. If there are any stray plants they can be dug out.

TROUBLE IN FINDING LABOR

Whole Proposition Should Be Studied by Farmer in Winter With View to Economizing.

Some crops require much more labor than others and this factor should be considered by growers who have difficulty in finding labor. The small, quick-perishing crops, such as radishes and lettuce, require much more labor than others like cabbage, sweet corn and cucumbers. The whole proposition should be studied carefully during the winter months with a view to economizing in the employment of labor and utilizing labor to the very best advantage.

RAPID INCREASE IN ALFALFA

Has Resulted in More Careful Study of Its Possibilities as Food for All Farm Animals.

The rapid increase in the production of alfalfa in the United States during recent years has resulted in a more careful study of its possibilities as a food for all classes of live stock. Formerly it was used primarily as a cattle feed, but now it is used as a feed for horses, swine and sheep.

Task of Mine-Sweepers

Is Filled With Perils,

But It Has Fascination

THE correspondent of The London Daily Mail, Jack-staff, writing on mine-sweeping and its fascinations and perils, says:

"There is just a hint of Sisyphean labor about mine-sweeping. Throw back your minds to your school books and you will recall that Sisyphus, unhappy wight, had to keep on continuously rolling a stone uphill. Although this job kept Sisyphus so busy that he had no need to go in for 'physical jerks' (fifteen minutes a day immediately after the morning tub; see handbook) in order to keep up his muscle, it did not apparently do anybody else the least bit of good.

"Therein it differed vastly from mine-sweeping, which must be scheduled among the most useful operations of the war. Where a resemblance does come in is in the fact that an area once swept will not stay swept. After the ships have gone over it they must turn back and start again, and so ad infinitum.

"The procedure is something like this: One mine-sweeper in the course of combing over a particular stretch of sea come across a mine field. With great care they destroy this, rooting up and smashing every 'bulb' that has been planted in it. As soon as they have done so out creeps the wily Hun in a submarine and lays a fresh lot of mines. Sometimes the new field is put down so soon after the previous one has been removed that it seems as if the Hun must have been going along in the wake of our 'sweepers' when he laid it.

"In most cases mine-sweeping falls to the lot of trawlers manned by fishermen or other R.N.R. ratings. Nobody else could do the work quite as well as the men who are inured by long experience to the vagaries of the trawler, which in bad weather displays the vices of every other type of ship and the virtues of none. At one minute she imitates a submarine just starting to dive, the next she tumbles clumsily over the crest of a wave and brings up in the trough with a thump that makes all her bones rattle.

"At another time she will stand awhile on her heel and after making a curious swinging motion with her bows burrow headlong into an on-coming roller. With wind and sea abeam, her decks are no place for a timid man nor for the queasy stomach, either. Even experienced sailors accustomed to big ships alone go down like very handmen.

"The trawlers carry on their rough and dangerous task in pairs. Between them stretches a long wire hawser, and with this they sweep minutely the area assigned to them. No matter how wildly their craft may be beating about, how cold the weather or how stormy the sea, all hands except the engine-room people must be on deck while the wires are out and at their posts ready for whatever may happen. And plenty does happen. Mines caught in the sweep have to be destroyed as the surest way of rendering them harmless.

"Much else may have to be done, too. Above all, eyes must be kept lifting for periscopes, as there is a chance that at any moment a submarine may start shooting 'tin fish' at the vessel. Or they may perchance bump on a mine. No lookout can avail against this, though the danger of such a mishap is smaller than it used to be. Nevertheless, the knowledge that a thing like this may happen at any moment does not help to make life more cheery for the crew. Death, in fact, stands by and grins in their faces all the time they are at work. And it is a great tribute to their nerve that they take his grim presence so calmly and 'carry on' with their duty as steadily as if they were free of his grisly company.

"How many tens of thousands of mines the unassuming heroes of this branch of the navy have destroyed during the war probably nobody can say. But it is very certain that were it not for the mine sweepers there would be no safety in home waters for any of our ships, be they men-of-war or trading 'bottoms.'"

BLACKHEAD HARD TO CHECK

Despite Fact That Much Scientific Investigation Has Been Made, No Cure Found.

Blackhead is one of the commonest and at the same time one of the most serious diseases of turkeys. It is hard to control and possibly is more the cause of the lesser number of turkeys than any other one thing. Much scientific investigation has been conducted along this line but so far no real cure has been secured.

German Prisoners Work

For the English Farmers

And Prove Satisfactory

THE land labor problem has been a vexatious one in England for quite a period, the war draft having laid so tremendous a levy on the agricultural workers. Various tentative solutions were offered, and finally the employment of German prisoners of war was advocated, provided suitable arrangements could be made for the housing and guarding of the men. At first it was insisted that prisoners could be released for service only in large batches, a condition which 'virtually obliterated the chances of the agricultural employer. Experience has put a brighter complexion on things, however, says a London communication, and already considerable numbers of German prisoners are at work on the land, helping to produce the corn and other articles the country needs so badly.

The example of a prominent landowner on his home farm of 1,200 acres (70 acres arable) in a south-western county is instructive. At the beginning of this year the authorities were induced to allocate to him about 30 prisoners. Most of the prisoners chosen had been engaged in farm work in their own country, and the others were skilled artisans used to country life, and they and the trained hands adapted themselves quickly to the new conditions of work and living. The laborers beside whom they were to work offered no opposition to their employment. Of course, it was made clear to them that it was a choice between German prisoners and reduced food production, and this removed instantly whatever objection was entertained to the introduction of enemy prisoners to the farm and the neighborhood. The idea that the prisoners were to be utilized to produce food for the nation instead of being kept, as many of them were, in idleness, commended itself to the shrewd people of the south-western district.

The number of employers who could provide work and accommodation for as many as thirty men is probably small, but it would be as easy to arrange for ten as for thirty, and if the size of the batch could be reduced, say to ten, or better still, to five, wider possibilities for the scheme would be opened up. The plan involved the erection of new buildings on the farm referred to, beyond an ordinary army hut to increase the accommodation provided by the adaptation of three unoccupied cottages. In the summer some of the men were under canvas, and it was only when winter quarters became necessary that the hut was erected. The cottages form one block, and communicating doors were made in the interior walls for the convenience of the prisoners and the guard of three soldiers. The prisoners draw their rations from the camp at stated times, and one of them cooks for the draft. The men have given proof of their industry and skill in the cottages and in the use to which they have put their enclosure as well as on the farm. The dormitories and living rooms are neat and clean, and the area within the barbed wire fence is used for grow-

HOW TO KEEP WELL

BY JOHN W. S. McCULLOUGH, M.D., D.P.H., CHIEF OFFICER OF THE PROVINCIAL BOARD OF HEALTH.

THE EYE.

THE HUMAN EYE is a wonderful instrument, but under the trying conditions of modern life it often fails to meet the demands put upon it, and serious trouble of all sorts results because we do not help out by getting glasses to supply Nature's defects.

Particularly at the time when children begin their school life, the new and difficult usages made of the eye often bring on eye strain and a host of resultant disorders.

THE EYE.

THE HUMAN EYE is a wonderful instrument, but under the trying conditions of modern life it often fails to meet the demands put upon it, and serious trouble of all sorts results because we do not help out by getting glasses to supply Nature's defects.

Particularly at the time when children begin their school life, the new and difficult uses made of the eye often bring on eye strain and a host of resultant disorders.

The signs of beginning eye strain may vary in different cases. At first only a slight fatigue may be noticed after reading or sewing.

DO YOU NEED GLASSES The eyes may water easily or the eyeball may become bloodshot or the eyelids red. Some persons whose eyes are overtaxed show it by nervousness and others by drowsiness after the eyes have been used. Headaches of all sorts and even attacks of vertigo may be merely the symptoms of eye trouble.

The eye has a remarkable power, called the power of accommodation. When you look from a distant object to one nearby you notice that it takes a few seconds to focus the eye so that you can see it clearly. Little muscles are contracting and changing the shape of the eye to adjust it to the different distances somewhat as you change the focus of a camera according to the nearness of the object to be photographed. If the eye is abnormal in any respect these muscles have to work too hard, and, even though we may by this unconscious effort be able to see clearly, yet the strain is present. In such case we are seeing by a constant effort, while if glasses were provided to correct the defect of vision they would do this work and save us the strain.

A careful and thorough examination of the eyes should be made by a competent person. Many a miserable hour would be saved if this were done in time.

Because of defective eyesight a child may be dull, fretful, and backward in school, without anyone guessing the reason. An examination of the eyes reveals serious defects; these are corrected by proper glasses, and the effect is most marked. The child appears happier, makes good progress in his studies, and takes his rightful place in the school community.

Glasses or no glasses, there are some things that cannot be done with the eyes except at grave peril. Too little light strains the eyes, and so does too much. A direct glare right in the face is quite as bad as a room that is too dim to see properly. For reading, sewing, or other work which requires close and accurate vision the light should be clear and steady and should come from above and behind.

EARACHE Earache is a common and distressing trouble in young children. It often occurs in connection with winter colds and in the course of measles and scarlet fever; it is due to an infection of the middle ear, the poisonous germs being carried from the throat up the little passage, called the Eustachian tube to the middle portion of the ear just inside the ear-drum. In other cases it occurs in children who have adenoids and large tonsils. In cases of earache which are severe and which may easily be neglected because the mother may not know the danger, the ear-drum may burst from the pressure of mucus inside it and the child is left with a running ear. This is often difficult to cure. In other cases the infection may spread to the cells or honeycomb of bone in the mastoid bone behind the ear and necessitate an operation. These bad results may frequently be prevented by a timely puncture of the drum, which at once gives relief and soon clears up the case. In an earache of any severity or where the pain lasts over a day or so, always call in a competent physician or an ear specialist, and give your child the best chance possible. In mild cases relief may be given by putting a few drops of warm olive oil in the ear and a hot water bottle outside.

were made in the interior walls for the convenience of the prisoners and the guard of three soldiers. The prisoners draw their rations from the camp at stated times, and one of them cooks for the draft. The men have given proof of their industry and skill in the cottages and in the use to which they have put their inclosure as well as on the farm. The dormitories and living rooms are neat and clean, and the area within the barbed wire fence is used for growing vegetables and breeding rabbits in wonderful abundance, the latter the progeny of a few given by the employer.

In a few weeks the prisoners will have completed a year's work, and they have been tested in all kinds of labor. The nature of employment varies as the season changes; some of the men have driven horses in field operations, such as plowing, harrowing, and drilling, others have done carting and others manual work. In all capacities they have shown equal aptitude and willingness to help. The standard of efficiency is high, and there has been no friction between the prisoners and local workers. When I visited the farm the day's program included the carting of mangolds from the field to the homestead, where the roots were being stored in a huge Dutch barn, and although this work entailed the inclusion of both English and German labor, amicable relations appeared to exist, and only the armed guard and the tunics of the prisoners indicated the exceptional nature of the situation. The language difficulty was troublesome at first, but with the aid of dictionaries it was soon surmounted, and the whole arrangement works smoothly and with appreciable advantage to the country, for the work on the farm is far more forward than is common in the district, and the additional forty acres of corn grown this year as a direct result of the labor which has replaced that previously supplied by men at the front will next year be greatly increased, for the 1917 level has already been considerably exceeded. In addition to the work on the home farm, whenever any of the farmers in the neighborhood have been short of labor they have been assisted as far as possible with German labor, and, in consequence, some of them were enabled to turn on a gang of half a dozen men to assist with the harvest, carting mangolds and other work.

The matter would appear to resolve itself into a question of whether it is possible for more landlords to start similar schemes on their estates, or, in the alternative, whether it would be practicable next spring to have in different parts of the country camps of prisoners of war from which farmers could draw further labor as they required it.

SNIDER SPENT $500 WITHOUT RESULTS

Then Takes Tanlac and Health is Restored—Gains Twelve Pounds.

"I have gained back twelve pounds of my lost weight and I don't hesitate to say I believe Tanlac has saved my life," said Frank Snider 102 Duchess street, Toronto, recently. Mr. Snider is a valued employee of the Chisholm Milling company.

"I don't believe anyone ever had a worse case of stomach trouble than I did," continued Mr. Snider. "During the past five years I went down in health and lost weight until I hardly looked like myself. During the past three years I have spent at least five hundred dollars for treatment and medicines but kept getting worse. Several specialists told me they could do me no good and I was given to understand there was no hope for me. I got so I couldn't retain anything I would eat and for fifteen months I lived on a diet of such things as oatmeal and milk—the very lightest foods. There was always a hurting in the pit of my stomach and pains in my sides and back around my kidneys. Sometimes I would get so dizzy while at my work that I would just pitch right over on the floor. Many a morning I have started off to work and before getting a block away, would have to turn around, go home and stay. I was off from my work the greater part of two years. Many a night I have suffered so much pain from the gas and bloating that I had to get up out of bed and walk the floor for hours.

"The first few doses of Tanlac made me feel better so I kept on taking it and improving until now I'm feeling better than I have in ten years. My stomach don't bother me any more now, and it is hard for me to eat enough to satisfy my appetite. I am free from all pain now and I haven't missed a days work since a short time after I began taking Tanlac and I certainly do feel very grateful for what it has done for me. My wife and her sister, who lives in Kitchener, and my brother in London, are all taking Tanlac on account of the good it has done me and I will gladly tell anyone that I believe Tanlac is the greatest medicine in the world."

CLIP THIS AND PIN ON WIFE'S DRESS

Cincinnati man tells how to shrivel up corns or calluses so they lift off with fingers.

Ouch ! ! ! ! This kind of trouble will be heard less here in town people troubled with corns will tell the simple advice of this Cincinnati authority, who claims that a few drops of a drug called freezone when applied to a tender, aching corn or hardened callus stops soreness at once, and soon the corn or callus dries up and lifts right off without pain.

He says freezone dries immediately and never inflames or even irritates the surrounding skin. A small bottle freezone will cost very little at a drug store, but will positively remove every hard or soft corn or callus from one's feet. Millions of American women will welcome this announcement with the inauguration of the high heels; your druggist doesn't have freezone; him to order a small bottle for you.

DEATH OF CHAS. W. WALROTH

On Friday morning, March 15, 1918, Charles Washington Walroth entered into rest. The subject of this sketch was born on Dec. 27th, 18 near Centreville in Camden township and at the age of six years moved with his parents to the farm which he resided till death. Chas. Walroth was known to his many friends and neighbors as a man clean, honest, and upright character also as one of the most active in agricultural work in the township. In politics he was a Liberal, though never a politician. Dropsical he trouble was the cause of death, although his last illness was of less than a year's duration, he was a great sufferer. He was resigned to go and many times during the last two days while his loved ones were at his bedside he murmured "Lo take me now." After the poor body was at rest many spoke of a calm, sweet smile that had lingered through the pangs of death. Besides his widow, whose maiden name was Mary A. Morgan, to whom he was married in 1880, at Selby leaves one child, Mrs. Geo. Brooks, to mourn the loss of a kind husband and indulgent father. Though he came of a family of two brothers and sisters, but one, Mr. John Yeomans, Wesley, survives, the youngest of the family. The funeral service which was attended by a large concourse of friends, was held at Selby Methodist church, on Sunday at 10.30 a.m. Rev. Mr. Garre his pastor who had visited him several times during his illness, conducted the service. His text was taken from 1st Chron. 29 Chap. a part of the 15th verse, "Our days the earth are as a shadow: and they are none abiding."

All the pain and grief are over,
 Every restless tossing passed;
 He is now at peace forever
 Safely home in Heaven at last.
 And He came Himself to meet him
 In that way so hard to tread;
 And with Jesus' arm to lean on,
 Could he have one doubt or dread?

LIP THIS AND PIN

ON WIFE'S DRESSEN

Cincinnati man tells how to shrivel up corns or calluses so they lift off with fingers.

Ouch ! ! ! ! ! This kind of rough skin will be heard less here in town if people troubled with corns will follow the simple advice of this Cincinnati authority, who claims that a few drops of a drug called freestone when applied to a tender, aching corn or hardened callus stops soreness at once, and soon the corn or callus dries up and lifts right without pain.

He says freestone dries immediately & never inflames or even irritates the surrounding skin. A small bottle of freestone will cost very little at any drug store, but will positively remove any hard or soft corn or callus from your feet. Millions of American women will welcome this announcement since the inauguration of the high heels. If your druggist doesn't have freestone tell him to order a small bottle for you.

With the exception of her eldest son, William, all her children were present at the funeral. The six sons acting as pallbearers.

The last heavy snow storm andizzard has again blocked our roads, and has greatly obstructed all business and delayed our mail service. Mrs. J. W. Lane and her daughter, nieces, are away to Ottawa to consult some specialist about some ailment; the little girl has been troubled with it.

Mrs. F. Stein, of Tweed, is spending a few days here visiting relatives and former neighbors in the village and vicinity.

Miss Eda Warlich and her brother, Robert, spent a couple of days visiting friends in Raglan.

STELLA.

McMullen and Alexander Mann were filling their ice houses last week.

The grist mill in the village, owned by J. W. Brown, was offered for sale by Auctioneer W. H. Preston on Thursday afternoon last. The highest bid did not reach the reserve bid and therefore the mill was unsold.

L. McCrowe, Cataragui, was on the island last week.

Ford Cars

We aimed to give good advice in urging prospective Ford buyers to place their orders for cars before an advance, and will now venture to advise those who did not order to do so at once, as there is likely to be a scarcity of Ford cars, and another advance is quite possible. The Ford factory at Detroit has been forced to reduce its production from 3,200 cars to 1,500, and the Canadian factory at Ford, Ont., is from 4,000 to 5,000 behind in their orders at the present time, and with no prospect in sight of catching up on account of the scarcity of materials. The price is still very low for a real every day of the week car. Come in and pick out your car NOW while we have some in stock. VANLUVEN BROS., dealers for Kingston and Moscow. W. J. Extraordinary Display of Peltry
 Chief Feature of Winter
 Fashions.

WRISTLETS IN WIDE FAVOR

Use of Varying Materials for Skirt,

 the Season.

New York.—Two important facts stand out in the fashions for winter. The extraordinary display of peltry is one, and the juxtaposition of different materials is the other.

The first fashion spells extravagance; the second stands for economy. It is the latter in which the great majority of women should be more interested, but with that delightful inconsistency which makes the race charming, they pay more attention to the extravagant fashion and allow it to absorb the better part of their thoughts on dress.

The last savage instinct to exist in a woman is her desire for pieces of fur to adorn her person. There was once a time when peltry belonged to winter and was needed for protection, and this excuse was used by every woman who could filch money from the housekeeping allowance to buy a bit of fur to go about her neck; but this flimsy excuse has faded into the background since it has been the fashion to be as prolific with fur in hot weather as in cold weather.

Pelting Women With Peltry.

The appearance of a group of women on the street on a cool morning suggests that some dynamic force has been pelting them with pieces of fur in a hit or miss fashion.

There is no plan of action running through the scheme of dressing. Wherever a piece of fur has hit a frock, there it remains. It may be on the head, the waist, the ankles or the back.

There are swinging panels at the sides of skirts which are edged with fur; there are immense collars with wide, separate wristlets of fur used on blouses and coats; there are jackets which have fur peplums or a fur panel down the back; there are other coats that display waistcoats of peltry and, possibly, patch pockets which correspond with the hem on the skirt.

The milliners have made hats of fur in patchwork fashion. A turban of yellow will have brown spots on it; a flaring brim of sealskin will be attached to a crown of ermine which has a medallion of seal on top; a beehive hat of black velvet will have bands

POTATOES FOR SHOW

Dig when the ground is dry. Let potatoes lie on the ground long enough to dry thoroughly and to toughen the skin.

Carefully wrap each tuber separately in paper.

Place in shallow one-layer boxes and store in a dark cool place.

Take out just before time to send the tubers to the show.

Clean them with a soft brush removing every particle of the dirt.

Avoid pressure in order not to injure the tubers.

Do not wash; tubers wilt if washed and have an unnatural sheen.

Pick out a model of the type, size, color and eyes of the variety to be exhibited.

Make the rest of the lot as nearly like this model as possible.

See that the skin is clean, smooth and free from sunburn, having a desirable luster and bloom and being free from all blemishes of all sorts.

Wrap in soft paper and pack so that they will not jostle or jar in being shipped. — A. W. Aamodt, Potato Specialist, University Farm, St. Paul.

finally finishes out with the greatest weight, and yields the highest percentage of prime beef.

In selecting feeders, there is perhaps no point more important than the back. A wide, straight, strong back, with a well sprung rib, is essential. The girth of the steer should be large—that is, the distance around the body back of the shoulder should be as large as possible. This means more room for vital organs and insures a better constitution than is otherwise likely to prevail. Associated also with a large girth is a well-sprung rib, making a wide back on which there is room for the deposition of a large quantity of high-priced meat. There is also greater depth of chest and greater digestive capacity with a large girth.

made from three kinds of fur running around the base of the crown to end in a lover's knot at the side.

Few women want to buy a top coat or a short, rippling jacket of fur which is not built up in successive tiers of opposing peltries. For instance, a short cape coat of sealskin has collar and cuffs of ermine edged with black broadtails and there are huge buttons of seal surrounded by broadtail and set in gunmetal rims.

Where there is so much fur floating about, it is quite natural that the odds and ends of it should be utilized as long as fashion permits women to put it on their clothes without apparent design.

Lover's knots, which have come into fashion again, are made of fur, for instance, and are attached to the cuffs, to the front of the collar and sometimes used as a substitute for buttons down the front of a velvet bodice or a loose Russian blouse that is belted in with peltry.

This fashion has not spread over the continent quickly, and it is, therefore, offered to all women who want to do the unusual in dress. Bits of fur may easily be used for these wristlets, the lining may be quite gorgeous, and if one affects color, this wristlet of fur may be rolled back at its top edge and made to show the color beneath as it lies away from the sleeve of the bodice or jacket over which it is worn.

As a fashion, these peltry wristlets are good looking, and as a means of protection against cold weather they are entirely admirable. They are by no means confined to the smart classes, but have been taken up by all the mass of women who go out early in the morning to their various activities either as professionals or as volunteers. They are not substitutes for muffs, but in connection with a large neckpiece or a fur cape they provide enough warmth to a coat suit against a low temperature.

The Blouse of the Hour.

The second fact of importance in fashion which was stated in the beginning of this story is the furtherance of economical ideas in dress by joining together whatever materials one likes to accomplish a suit or a frock.

In this one respect, fashion has turned a somersault over the intervening decades between a fashion that was and a fashion that is. Those who were shrewd enough to foretell a scarcity of worsted materials in the world warned us that a season would soon break in which the uniform line of color and fabric from chin to ankle must be abandoned. That hour has approached more rapidly than even the prophets foretold. At the moment, we are not aware that there is any exasperating need of such economy, but preparedness is the best way to face an approaching truth.

Therefore, the world of dressmakers has given women to understand that it is no longer necessary to have a coat that matches a skirt or a blouse that matches either, no matter for what occasion the costume is intended. Even for the most ceremonial hours, such as the opera, a dinner or a dance, there are black and colored velvet skirts with bodices that are as remote from the skirt as though they had been bodily lifted from another costume.

The Peasant Blouse.

For the house, and for all manner of usage under a coat, there is another kind of separate blouse which is, at last, a serious rival to the white shirtwaist.

There is nothing new in it. It has been worn for centuries by the peasants of every country. It was adopted in America by a minority of women over a year ago, but it is now offered as the most pleasing contrast to a skirt that has nothing in common with it as far as texture and color go.

The host of women who have worked in the arts and crafts department of dress, and those who have catered to the artistic element, offered these separate blouses with persuasive words, but it was only when the shops took them up that the public accepted them as a leading fashion.

It is quite easy to see how they simplify dressing. They are made of soft, colorful fabrics, the lining may be added or dispensed with, they manage to blend with any kind of separate skirt that the wardrobe affords, and they permit a woman to remove her coat at luncheon in the afternoon, which was a permission not given by the separate white shirtwaist.

GROW LARGE CROPS OF OATS

Farmer Should Provide Feed for Horses, Sheep, Cows and Other Stock—Plan is Outlined.

The farmer who raises horses and sheep, feeds dairy cows and fattens beef cattle, annually should grow large crops of oats. They should get ripe enough to be cut and bound by the binder, so when dried out in the shock the sheaves will not mold when stored in the barn. These things attended to, with some kind of power and a modern straw cutter in the barn, the entire crop, as needed, should be cut up quite fine and fed. Fed in this way, the stock eats up almost all the straw, and the grain entire.

DRESSED WEIGHT OF SWINE

Shown by Experiments That Animals Average 76.44 Per Cent Fasted Live Weight.

A number of experiments have shown that the dressed weight of hogs is on an average of 76.44 per cent fasted live weight.

When hogs are fed corn or other concentrated fat-producing feed, the dressed weight may be 80 per cent of the live weight. On this estimate the blood constitutes 2.5 to 3 per cent of the live weight; the liver, 1.3 to 1.5 per cent; heart, 2 per cent; stomach and contents, 4.5 to 5 per cent; intestines, 6.5 to 8 per cent; kidneys, 3 per cent; spleen, 1 per cent; intestinal fat, 1 to 2 per cent; kidney fat, 4 to 4.5 per cent.

IN THE SPRING

will be the great test of a life and death struggle on the Western front. In the everyday walks of life, it is the spring time that brings ill health. One of the chief reasons why the run-down man finds himself in a bad state of health in March or April, is because he has spent nearly all his hours for the past four or five months penned up within the walls of house, factory or office. It is the reason for our diminished resistance—that is, lack of out-door life, coupled with perhaps over-eating, lack of good exercise, insufficient sleep, and constipation. In other words, we keep feeding the furnace with food but do not take out the "clinkers," and our fire does not burn brightly. Always keep the liver active.

There is nothing better for health than taking an occasional mild laxative, perhaps once a week; such a one as you can get at any drug store, made up of May-apple, jalap, aloes (sugar-coated, tiny, easily taken), which has stood the test of fifty years of approval—namely, Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. But for the "Spring Fever," the general run-down condition, the lack of ambition, the "blues," one should take a course of treatment every spring; such a standard tonic as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, now to be had in tablet form in fifty-cent vials. Watch the people go plodding along the street. There's no spring, no vitality. A vitalizing tonic such as this vegetable extract of Dr. Pierce's gives you the power to force yourself into action. The brain responds to the new blood in circulation, and thus you're ready to make a fight against stagnation which holds you in bondage. Try it now! Don't wait! To-day is the day to begin. Gain a little "pep," and laugh and live. Vim and vitality are the natural out-pouring of a healthy body. It does not spring up in a night. Try this spring tonic, and you gain the courage that comes with good health.

PREPARING NOW FOR SPRING

Winter Is Good Time to Rig Up Several Three and Four-Horse Eveners on Implements.

In view of the probable shortage of farm labor next spring, now is a timely occasion to rig up several three and four-horse eveners to be used on the farm implements. One man with a four-horse team will do almost as much work in preparing the spring seedbed as two men, each using a two-horse team.

A meeting of the Managers and Superintendents of the various Electric Light plants in Ontario using Hydro Power was held at the Mining and Chemistry building of the University at Toronto, March 13th and 14th, when a new association was formed, and officers elected for the coming year. It is the intention of this Association to hold meetings in the various municipalities throughout the Province at least twice a year when technical papers will be read, and matters of mutual interest discussed. An association of this kind will no doubt prove a valuable aid to its members in the operation of their several plants. A pleasant feature of the meeting was a dinner tendered to the members by the Hydro Electric Power Commission on Wednesday, 13th inst. This was held in the Dining Hall of the Commission building on University Avenue, where they have a most complete installation of the latest electrical cooking equipment. Sir Adam Beck and Mr. T. H. Gaby, Chief Engineer, were present and delivered short addresses, and the musical entertainment was supplied by an orchestra under the personal direction of Mr. H. F. Strickland, Chief Electrical Inspector. It was decided to

The merest statement regarding "The Birth of a Nation" leaps to superlative because there is no other form in which it can be written. Simple facts in relationship to its developments sound extravagant until you have seen the production and realized a title of its sweep and power. It covers the essential details of American history ranging through three centuries. Actual battles are shown with tens of thousands of soldiers in the conflict. 18,000 people participated in the telling of the story. Three thousand horses were used to give the cavalry and other thrilling effects of the wild dashes over miles of territory. Cities were built up only to be destroyed by fire. The total cost of the entire production was in the neighborhood of $500,000. Five hundred costumers and seamstresses worked for three months to make the costumes worn by the people, 10,000 yards of cloth were worked into the costumes worn by the women while 25,000 yards of white muslin were used up in the regalia of the Ku-Klux-Klansmen. And yet with all this a simple, human story of love and romance weaves through the vast spread of the action and grips the hearts of the audience. The narrative is filled with tears and smiles. A musical score accompanies the action and lends a potent force to the drama. Tickets now on sale at Wonderland.

to greater motor car value

From the standpoint of dollar for dollar value there's not a car made which offers more for your money than the famous Chevrolet Four-Ninety A.

Before the Chevrolet was made in Canada, good cars were all high in price.

But our mammoth production and manufacturing efficiency enables us to sell the Chevrolet Four-Ninety A at a price much lower than its value when compared with other makes of cars.

With the surplus power developed by the famous valve-in-head motor the owner of a Four-Ninety A invariably is the "trail blazer."

Standard equipment includes speedometer, electric starting and lighting, ammeter, oil indicator light equipment, one man top, demountable rims, non-skid tires on rear wheels and many features usually looked for in cars much higher in price.
